

ABSTRACT

Hands-free telephone calls with a computer system or other electronic device while a modem maintains a data session established before the telephone call are described.